

Rosida M. Burton, LPN

LICENSED PRACTICAL NURSE

Rosida is a licensed practical nurse who is currently serving patients in Maybee, Michigan. She specializes in private duty nursing. Private duty nursing is the care of clients by nurses, who may be licensed as registered nurses or licensed practical nurses. Most nurses who provide private duty care work one-on-one with individual clients. Such care may be provided in the client's home or in an institution, such as hospitals, nursing homes, or other such facilities.

She attributes her success to her passion for helping people. Rosida is certified to administer intravenous therapy, which is a therapy that delivers fluids directly into a vein.

To stay up to date in her field, Rosida is a member of the National Association of Licensed Practical Nurses (NALPN). The Mission of the NALPN is to foster high standards of nursing care and promote continued competence through education and certification and lifelong learning, with a focus on public protection.

A licensed practical nurse (LPN) is a nurse who cares for people who are sick, injured, convalescent or disabled. In the United States, LPNs work under the direction of physicians. A person can generally become an LPN with one to two years of training in the United States; all U.S state and territorial boards also require passage of the NCLEX-PN exam.
